ACADEMIC YEAR 2022

JURIS DOCTOR

SINGAPORE'S PREMIER PROFESSIONAL GRADUATE LAW DEGREE
The National University of Singapore Faculty of Law (NUS Law) is widely regarded as Asia’s leading law school. Staffed by an outstanding permanent faculty diverse in origin and qualifications, NUS Law is dedicated to building a vibrant community and creating an environment that facilitates critical thinking and reflection on the fundamental legal issues confronting our interconnected world. Located in Singapore, which for more than a century has been a commercial hub at the crossroads of Asia, NUS Law is very much Asia’s Global Law School.

Since 1957 the School’s curriculum has been infused with perspectives from other jurisdictions and disciplines. This tradition has accelerated in recent years, providing a legal education that is comparative, international and multidisciplinary. NUS Law hosts many visiting faculty and students from every continent, offering a lively, cosmopolitan atmosphere both inside and outside the classroom. The strength of the NUS Law curriculum lies in the broad and diverse range of subjects it offers. In addition to a rigorous core curriculum, students can choose from more than a hundred electives in areas such as Asian legal studies and comparative law, commercial law, IP and technology law, law and society, legal theory, maritime law, and public and private international law.

NUS Law is the

Dean’s Message

As Asia’s global law school, NUS Law combines tradition and innovation. Tradition reflects more than six decades of rigorous education and research that has shaped Singapore’s legal system and produced most of its leading lawyers. Innovation embraces an openness to new ideas and to the world, with an outward looking academic programme that welcomes lawyers from across the region and the planet.

Our new Juris Doctor (JD) degree reflects the best of these qualities. It offers a degree that is recognised globally from the most highly-regarded law school in Asia, including a pathway to practice in its most dynamic and open economy. With bespoke courses for graduate students as well as the breadth of a curriculum with more than a hundred electives to choose from, you will be able to craft a degree that suits your needs and interests, preparing you for wherever your career takes you.

You will be taught by experts in the field, sitting beside future leaders of the profession — joining an alumni network that includes the top legal officers in Singapore as well as partners in major law firms from Shanghai to Hong Kong, and from New York to London.

Graduate school should be about more than just study, though. NUS Law enjoys a beautiful campus that is adjacent to Singapore’s first UNESCO World Heritage site, the Botanic Gardens. There are opportunities for leadership and for service, including student clubs and pro bono opportunities.

Whatever your reason for considering a graduate degree, I hope you will take the time to explore where the NUS Law JD could take you.

Professor Simon Chesterman
Dean
Faculty of Law
National University of Singapore
“In addition to a world-class compulsory core curriculum, NUS Law offers over 100 elective subjects each year in fields as diverse as aviation law, entertainment law, international commercial arbitration, mergers & acquisitions and human rights in Asia.”

Professor Wayne Courtney

As Vice Dean (Academic Affairs and Undergraduate Studies) oversees all of the undergraduate and graduate coursework programmes at NUS Law. Wayne specialises in contract law and has broader interests in commercial law and private law. He is the author of two books, Contractual Indemnities and The Modern Contract of Guarantee (now in its fourth edition), and co-editor of Punishment and Private Law. His work has been cited by the apex courts of Australia, Canada, New Zealand, Singapore and the United Kingdom, by the Hong Kong Court of Appeal, and by various other courts. He is a member of the editorial board of the Journal of Contract Law, section co-editor (Southeast Asia) for the Journal of Banking and Finance Law and Practice, and a past member of the editorial board of the Sydney Law Review.

Associate Professor Arif Jamal

As Vice Dean (Graduate Studies) has general oversight of the graduate coursework programmes at NUS Law, which include the JD, LLM, Graduate Diploma and Graduate Certificate. His research and teaching interests include law and religion, law in Muslim contexts, and legal and political theory. Arif is the co-Editor-in-Chief of the Asian Journal of Comparative Law and has held visiting appointments with the law schools of the University of Trento, Tel Aviv University, City University of Hong Kong, as well as at the Centre for Transnational Legal Studies in London.

Professor David Tan

(photo on the next page) is the Director of the JD programme. His areas of research cover personality rights, copyright, trademarks, freedom of expression, constitutional law and tort law, and his articles have been cited on a number of occasions by the Singapore Court of Appeal and High Court. David has published over 60 articles, comments, book chapters and review essays since joining NUS Law in 2008. David was formerly with the Singapore Administrative Service, serving as Director of Sports at Ministry of Community Development, Youth & Sports and Director of International Talent at Ministry of Manpower. He has also had work experience at McKinsey & Company and DBS Bank.

Juris Doctor Programme

The Juris Doctor degree, commonly known as a JD, is a graduate law degree that may lead to qualification for the practice of law in Singapore.

At the NUS, the JD programme comprises:
(i) A 2-year single graduate degree programme for candidates holding a basic law degree from another jurisdiction; and
(ii) A 3-year single graduate degree programme for candidates holding a non-law degree.

The 3-year JD can be completed in 2.5 years in exceptional circumstances.

Why a JD at NUS?
You would most likely want to read a JD if you want to practise law in Singapore, subject to the "Qualified Person" requirements imposed by the Legal Profession (Qualified Persons) Rules. NUS Law is ranked the #10 law school in the world, and #1 in Asia by Quacquarelli Symonds (QS) 2021. We offer a comprehensive range of specialisations in areas such as Corporate and Financial Services Law, Intellectual Property and Technology Law, and International Arbitration and Dispute Resolution, taught by over 70 full-time faculty members and over two dozen adjunct faculty members.

Each year, a number of visiting professors from some of the leading law schools in the world, including Harvard, Yale, Oxford, Cambridge, the LSE, Melbourne, Seoul National University and University of Hong Kong amongst many others, also offer elective modules taught intensively over three weeks, thus increasing the richness of your academic experience at NUS Law.

Structure
The JD, whether in the 2-year or 3-year programme, is made up of a number of prescribed compulsory modules and elective modules which may be chosen from a number of specialisation clusters.

The Compulsory modules aim to:
i. give an understanding of the basic law modules and general principles;
ii. provide training in the basic skills essential for every lawyer, including analysis, research, writing, advocacy and problem-solving; and
iii. give an appreciation of the role of law and lawyers in their own society and in the global community to better equip a lawyer to deal with the challenges of globalisation.

The Elective modules allow students to pursue their interest in a particular field of law from a broad and diverse range, including Asian Legal Studies, Civil Law, Corporate and Financial Services Law, Intellectual Property and Technology Law, International and Comparative Law, International Arbitration and Dispute Resolution, Maritime Law, Private Law, Law and Society, and Research and Skills.

Programme Requirements
The programme requirements are designated Modular Credits (MC) – most 4 MC or 5 MC modules have 36 classroom contact hours per semester, typically 3 hours per week, for 12 weeks. Most 8 MC modules have 72 classroom contact hours; these modules may be taught in one semester (e.g. Law of Torts, Criminal Law, Company Law) or over an academic year (e.g. Law of Contract).

How does the acceleration option work for the JD?
The 3-year JD comprising 120-124 MC, may be accelerated in some cases for completion within 2.5 years subject to the approval of Vice Dean (Academic Affairs), which will take into consideration the student’s first year’s exam grades. Instead of reading 20 MC per semester for 6 semesters, they can read 24-25 MC per semester for 5 semesters to meet 120-124 MC. There is no acceleration option for the 2-year JD.

Can I be exempted from certain compulsory modules in the 2-year JD programme?
Yes. Exemptions from certain compulsory modules will be determined by Vice Dean (Academic Affairs) on a case-by-case basis taking into account considerations such as subjects previously studied in the candidate’s previous law degree and relevant work experience. The candidates will then have the opportunity to read more elective modules to make up the credits and successfully complete a total of 91-96 MC for the 2-year JD degree. This means that you will have more elective space to read modules in our specialisation clusters such as Asian Legal Studies, Civil Law, Corporate and Financial Services Law, Intellectual Property and Technology Law, International and Comparative Law, International Arbitration and Dispute Resolution, Maritime Law, and Private Law.

Are there student exchange opportunities in the JD programme?
Overseas student exchange opportunities are available to the JD students in the 3-year programme. Overseas student exchange will not be available in either the accelerated JD programme or the 2-year JD programme.

How is the JD taught?
As far as possible, the JD cohort will be taught in one section for the seminar-style compulsory modules: Criminal Law, Introduction to Legal Theory, Company Law, Legal Systems of Asia and Equity & Trusts. For compulsory modules taught in lecture-tutorial style, the JD students will attend the same lectures as the LLB students, but will be placed in separate tutorial group(s) from the LLB students: Torts, Contract, Property, Constitutional & Administrative Law and Evidence. In some compulsory and skills-based modules, they will be mingled with the LLB Students: Singapore Law in Context, Legal Analysis, Research & Communication, Trial Advocacy/Corporate Deals, and Pro Bono Service.

For the elective modules, the JD students will be integrated into the same class with LLB and LLM students, but will be graded separately from LLB and LLM students.

“Returning to teach at my alma mater is always a joy. The faculty and students embody the critical qualities of excellence, integrity and humanity. I’m thrilled to see that nestled at NUS Law is a vibrant community committed to nurturing talent and igniting potential.”

Electives

One distinctive and formidable strength of NUS Law is the broad and diverse range of elective modules that we offer. Students choose modules from many clusters or specialisations.

While the modules range from theoretical to practical, the overriding objective is to provide students with a liberal education through the medium of law that will allow them to maximise their potential to the fullest degree.

Accordingly, many of the modules integrate relevant cross-disciplinary and policy perspectives to give students a deep and rich understanding of how the law operates within society and the factors that influence the development and application of the law.

“I would never imagine returning to my alma mater 10 years after completing my LLM studies at NUS, but here I am, proudly part of the inaugural 2-year JD programme. I am excited to challenge my years of practice by learning the underlying theories behind the common law of Singapore and immersing myself in an educational experience that embraces a truly global approach.”
Throughout my legal career, I have worked with many NUS Law alumni, all of whom exhibited deep legal knowledge, nimble thinking, and a high degree of professionalism. NUS was thus my natural first choice. The elective subjects are extensive and relevant, and I particularly look forward to furthering my knowledge in cross-border disputes, international projects and infrastructure.

Admissions

The application period will commence on 15 September and end on 15 November for the August intake in the following year. For detailed information on how to apply, please visit https://law.nus.edu.sg/admissions/app_periods_forms.html.

Admission Requirements

Admission Criteria
Prospective applicants should possess the following academic qualifications to be considered for admission:

- For the 3-year JD programme: A university degree in any non-law discipline with at least a Cum Laude or Second Class Upper Honours degree or its equivalent.
- For the 2-year JD programme: Law graduates from a civil law country or a non-gazetted common law university with at least a Cum Laude or Second Class Upper Honours degree or its equivalent. Those completing their first degree by early July of the year of admission (August intake) may also apply.

English requirement
Applicants whose university degree is from English-medium institutions in Australia, Canada, Ireland, New Zealand, the United Kingdom, and the United States will not be required to submit proof of English language proficiency. All others will be required to submit a minimum TOEFL iBT Total score of 100 or minimum IELTS (Academic) overall band score of 7.5. If your degree was conducted entirely in the English medium and you wish to seek a waiver of this requirement, please submit your request together with supporting documents, and it will be considered on a case-by-case basis.

(Note: NUS only accepts TOEFL iBT scores from a single test date, not MyBest scores. TOEFL iBT Special Home Edition test scores may be accepted.)

Other requirements
Two academic referees will be required. Two recommendation letters from the employer can be accepted as an alternative if the applicants have been out of formal education for several years. The referee reports or recommendation letters are to be submitted online by your referees.

All applicants should furnish (i) a personal statement; and (ii) a one to two-page curriculum vitae, setting out their educational history and work experiences (if any).

Written Test and Interview
All shortlisted applicants must undergo an interview and a written test. The interview and test will be conducted between February and March. Details will be provided to shortlisted applicants.

More details are available at https://law.nus.edu.sg/admissions/admin_requirements.html.

Careers and Internships

Centre for Future-ready Graduates
NUS Law graduates follow a wide variety of career paths. Many take positions in leading firms in Singapore and around the world; others go on to occupy senior positions in government. Still others devote themselves to public service, or pursue higher degrees and join the world of academia. The Centre for Future-ready graduates (CFG) at NUS Law is set up to equip students with Future-ready skills to transit smoothly to their careers of choice after graduation.

CFG@Law organises a number of events throughout the academic year, including The Practice of Law Networking Event for freshmen, the Law Careers Fair as well as weekly Careers Lunchtime Talks and industry-specific Panel Discussions. The Centre also manages the NUS TalentConnect – an online platform for Law students, alumni and employers to share and access internships, fellowships, Practice Training Contracts and other permanent job opportunities.

CFG@Law fosters networking with alumni and co-ordinates the Law Alumni Mentor Programme (LAMP). It also promotes close contacts with industry partners, by inviting them for various initiatives.

Internships
NUS Law encourages our students to acquaint themselves with legal work through vacation internships with local and foreign law firms, companies and institutions, the Legal Service and other government authorities. Around 85 to 90% of students do an internship during their time at NUS Law and there is no lack of internship opportunities available. As such, NUS Law has made a conscious decision not to make internships a compulsory part of the curriculum, preferring to give our students the flexibility to use their vacation time to pursue other interests, including doing voluntary work.
